

FOOK SHING

Fook Shing is named after the infamous Chinese detective who was posted to the goldfields during Victoria's gold rush. A policeman originally based in Melbourne's Chinatown, 'Fook' was the go-to plain clothes detective for any issues related to Chinese in central Victoria. "Send Fook Shing" was a regular message from Victoria's Police Commissioner.

First operated as a temperance hotel by the Alexander family, Fook Shing has seen many changes in its life. Originally hosting coaches and their crew on the gold route it is believed that detective Fook Shing stayed at the pub as it offered excellent stables most suitable for constabulary.

With a strong focus on local suppliers, our drinks list has been curated to compliment the flavours of our menu.

Enjoy.
